

DOMAINS OF DELIGHT™

A FEYWILD ACCESSORY

CREDITS

Writer: Adam Lee

Art Director: Kate Irwin

Developers: Jeremy Crawford, Ben Petrisor,
Christopher Perkins

Editors: Judy Bauer, Jeremy Crawford, Christopher
Perkins

Proofreader: Ari Levitch

Graphic Designer: Trish Yochum

Cultural Consultant: Shiao-Ling Lai

Interior Illustrators: Helder Almeida, Mark Behm, Zoltan Boros, Alayna Danner, Toma Feizo Gas, Lars
Grant-West, Sam Keiser, Livia Prima, Ned Rogers,
Craig J. Sparring, Magali Villeneuve

Concept Art Director: Shawn Wood

Concept Illustrators: Jedd Chevier, Daarken, Toma
Feizo Gas, Titus Lunter, April Prime, Ilya Shkipin,
Cory Trego-Erdner, Shawn Wood, Kieran Yanner

Imaging Technician: Kevin Yee

D&D STUDIO

Executive Producer: Ray Winninger

Game Design Architects: Jeremy Crawford, Christopher
Perkins

Design Manager: Steve Scott

Design Department: Sydney Adams, Judy Bauer,
Makenzie De Armas, Dan Dillon, Amanda Hamon,
Ari Levitch, Ben Petrisor, Taymoor Rehman, F. Wesley
Schneider, James Wyatt

Art Department Manager: Richard Whitters

Principal Art Director: Kate Irwin

Art Department: Trystan Falcone, Emi Tanji, Shawn
Wood, Trish Yochum

Senior Producer: Dan Tovar

Producers: Bill Benham, Robert Hawkey, Lea Heleotis

Director of Product Management: Liz Schuh

Product Managers: Natalie Egan, Chris Lindsay, Hilary
Ross, Chris Tulach

MARKETING

Director of Global Brand Marketing: Brian Perry

Global Brand Manager: Shelly Mazzanoble

Senior Marketing Communications Manager: Greg Tito

Community Manager: Brandy Camel

CONTENTS

Chapter 1: Feywild Overview	3
Feywild Features	3
Seelie and Unseelie Fey	3
Spells in the Feywild	4
Weather	5
Domain Borders	5
Feywild Guides	5
Fey Outlook	6
Reciprocity	6
Hospitality	7
Gifts	7
Fey Contracts	7
Accidental Fey Contracts	7
Making a Contract	8
Price of a Contract	9
Breaking a Contract	9
Fey Curses	10
Fey Abodes	11
Chapter 2: Creating an Archfey	12
Where to Start?	12
Encountering the Archfey	12
Fey Court Allegiances	12
Appearance	12
Personality	13
Obsessions	13
Signature Magic	14
Magical Gifts	15
Archfey Statistics	15
Chapter 3: Creating a Domain of Delight	16
Geographical Features	16
Domain Theme	16
Coming and Going	17
Travel in the Domain	18
Mapping a Domain of Delight	18
Magical Shortcuts	18
Drama	19
Weird Magic	19
Domain Denizens	20
Domain Visitors	21
Chapter 4: Putting It All Together	22
Yarnspinner	22
Fablerise	22
Appendix: Adventure Aids	24

FEYWILD OVERVIEW

DOMAINS OF DELIGHT ARE TO THE FEYWILD what Domains of Dread are to the Shadowfell: sequestered realms governed by powerful beings. Whereas a Domain of Dread is ruled by a Darklord, a Domain of Delight is ruled by an archfey—the most powerful of Fey creatures. An archfey gives form to their Domain of Delight, shaping it in ways unique to their personality. Some Domains of Delight are bright and cheery, while others are gloomy, but each one reflects the emotional state of its ruler. A Domain of Delight can be as small as a few acres or as big as a country.

This accessory helps you create Domains of Delight and the archfey who rule them, building on the information about the Feywild that appears in the Dungeon Master's Guide. The ideas, tips, and tables in this chapter are meant to spark your imagination. Use what excites and intrigues you, discard what doesn't, and make up the rest!

FEYWILD FEATURES

The Feywild responds to unfettered emotion. It's not uncommon for flowers to turn and tremble if there's a heated argument nearby. If someone is filled with malice, their footprints might wither the grass under their feet or cause underground insects and worms to burrow to the surface. Birds chirp merrily in the presence of those who are joyous and squawk angrily at those who are perpetually dour. Nosy trees lean in to overhear whispers of conspiracy, eager for delicious tidbits they can gossip about later, and a rock might reshape itself to look like the creature that's happily sunning itself on the rock's surface.

Time and distance in the Feywild are mutable, as is the plane's geography. Roads are uncommon, and those that exist are as likely to change as the land around them. Because the distance between locations is not fixed and dilations in time are commonplace, a journey that took one hour yesterday might take three days tomorrow. Feywild natives are accustomed to the plane's mutability. For them, it's no more peculiar than the sun rising and setting on a Material Plane world.

Other features of the Feywild are described in the sections that follow. Think of them as a sampling of what the Feywild has to offer, for like the Material Plane, the Feywild is vast and diverse.

SEELIE AND UNSEELIE FEY

Seelie Fey and Unseelie Fey are two groups that often find themselves at odds. Seelie Fey cling to the trappings of civilization, value protocol, and uphold traditions. Unseelie Fey indulge their primal instincts, abhor adherence to protocol, and shun conformity. The two groups are not opposites morally or ethically; good and evil Fey can be found in both.

Seelie and Unseelie Fey gather in courts. The Seelie court is called the Summer Court, and the Unseelie court is called the Gloaming Court. Both courts stretch to the far corners of the Feywild, so their representatives can be encountered almost anywhere on this plane of existence. The Summer Court and the Gloaming Court are by no means the only great Fey courts, but they're the most well-known to creatures on the Material Plane and the most widespread.

How the Summer Court and the Gloaming Court came to be is a mystery. Perhaps some Fey felt a deeper affinity with the natural world and chose to emulate it, while other Fey began to control nature, using magic to invent new ways of living. Whatever the case, innumerable Fey pursued these two paths, which became the two courts, and there have been squabbles between them ever since.

Each court tries to destabilize and demoralize the other. Both Fey courts have spies who dig up dirt, sow seeds of dissent, and cause mischief. Captured spies are either ransomed or made examples of in various humiliating, nonlethal ways.

Much of the gossip and chatter within the Feywild is fueled by the intrigue and drama between the two queens that rule the courts. Titania, the Summer Queen, is the regal and charismatic ruler of the Summer Court. Her court enjoys a tenuous peace with the unearthly ruler of the Gloaming Court, the Queen of Air and Darkness, who allows her kin to dabble in magic forbidden by the Seelie Court.

Conflicts between the Fey courts are often ritualized. Representatives of both courts gather in an amphitheater or field to have heated debates or energetic dance competitions that simulate combat, and these events are often laced with bawdy insults and lewd gestures. Only on rare occasions do things get physical, and even then, the Fey do little more than bite, scratch, and hurl mud at each other.

THE QUEEN OF AIR AND DARKNESS FLOATS ABOVE HER THRONE, ATTENDED BY HER QUICKLING SPIES AND SATYR SPYMASTER.

Every now and then, the two queens lock horns, causing tensions to rise throughout the Feywild. If only one of them can get her way, what would normally be a squabble can turn to bloodshed. But only the Fey queens can declare all-out war against each other, and it would take something extreme to have them abandon their relative peace and hurl their courts into violence and chaos.

The Summer Court and the Gloaming Court have nothing akin to a mutual defense pact, and the very thought of one is greeted by jeers on both sides. If a rising army of fomorians or some other threat endangers one court, it's widely understood that the other court will not intervene unless it, too, is threatened by the same enemy.

If you choose to align your domain and its archfey with one of the two courts, guidelines for how they're differentiated are given below.

SUMMER COURT (SEELIE FEY)

- Favors sunshine, butterflies, flowers, music, and singing birds
- Values ceremony and refinement (for example, proper ways of speaking, formal etiquette, and extravagant dinner parties)
- Favors elaborate, manufactured costuming with immaculate tailoring

- Harshly judges those who don't exhibit the proper etiquette (adventurers who commit social blunders make fools of themselves, might be labeled buffoons, and might be laughed out of court)

GLOAMING COURT (UNSEELIE FEY)

- Favors gloom, twilight, cobwebs, fireflies, hooting owls, and croaking frogs
- Values the intuitive and instinctual (for example, mystical rituals, visionaries, and firelit parties)
- Shuns the constraints of civilization (instead wearing only unfinished natural materials and sleeping under the stars)
- Dabbles in mysterious magic and rituals (adventurers can run afoul of curses if they don't follow the Unseelie ways)

SPELLS IN THE FEYWILD

Spells that manifest one way in the Material Plane might do so differently in the Feywild. A magic missile spell might take the form of a giggling sprite that materializes next to the caster, fires off a barrage of tiny, glowing arrows, and disappears in a puff of sparkling fairy dust. Here are some other examples of how spells can be cosmetically reinterpreted in the Feywild:

Crown of Madness. The crown is made from gingerbread with icing filigree and candy gems.

Find the Path. A pixie-like spirit appears and guides the caster to the desired location. The spirit can't be harmed.

Gust of Wind. The wind carries the scent of flowers.

Maze. The demiplanar labyrinth created by the spell resembles a thorny hedge maze.

Phantom Steed. The steed looks like a giant, fuzzy caterpillar.

Revivify. A creature restored to life by this spell wakes up wondering if their entire life was all just a dream.

WEATHER

Strolling across a meadow or walking across a desert in the Feywild is often no different than doing the same on the Material Plane, but sometimes the Feywild needs to feel otherworldly. Playing with something as simple as the weather is an easy way to remind your players that their characters are not on the Material Plane.

The Feywild Weather table helps you determine fun weather effects. A weather effect such as this usually lasts no more than an hour or three.

FEYWILD WEATHER

d8	Weather Effect
1	Flower blossoms rain from a sky filled with sparkling, pastel-colored clouds.
2	A grand fairy drama plays in the sky as a stylistically rendered illusion or a swirling aurora.
3	It rains tiny fruit tarts. They fall slowly and disappear just before they hit the ground. If caught from the air and eaten, they're delicious.
4	Fog rolls in and plays harmless tricks on the characters, giving them fog mustaches, fog eyebrows, and fog wigs of many styles—perhaps even fog cloaks or fog companions.
5	Snow begins to fall, and the flakes grow bigger over time. Flakes as big as dinner plates, wagon wheels, and even a waterwheel fall, but they're light as a feather.
6	The sky fills with iridescent bubbles that lazily fall to the ground. Giggling pixie children chase and pop the bubbles but turn invisible and flee if spoken to or approached.
7	A silvery rain lifts the spirits and brings a song to each heart that it touches.
8	A howling wind blows through the party, and each party member must roll a d8. Anyone who rolls an 8 has a trinket or some other tiny, nonmagical item (such as a coin) stolen from them by weather spirits.

DOMAIN BORDERS

As an archfey's power waxes or wanes, their Domain of Delight can grow or shrink. If their domain grows big enough to abut or overlap another archfey's domain, a territorial dispute can arise. Until this dispute is resolved, other Fey denizens of the overlapping domains must defer to both rulers. Such disputes rarely last long; in the end, one archfey is given sufficient incentive to move elsewhere, or the two archfey learn to live with each other (and other denizens of the region must answer to both).

An archfey whose Domain of Delight doesn't overlap with another archfey's domain can surround their domain's border with walls of shimmering mist or some other magical effect that hides the domain from view and, if the archfey wishes, prevents creatures from entering or leaving the domain without a key, a guide, a password, the answer to a riddle, the archfey's consent, or magic.

FEYWILD GUIDES

The Feywild has its own illogical logic that visitors from other planes can never fully grasp. A guide who is well-versed in the ways of the Feywild can save travelers time and frustration, possibly even their freedom and their lives—by helping them avoid or get around the illogical logic. While visitors are easily vexed by roads that lead nowhere and forest trails that double back on themselves, a capable guide can see the road through the road and the trail beneath the trail. In doing so, the guide sidesteps the confusion and leads charges safely to their intended destination. Conversely, a bad guide can easily get an adventuring party into trouble.

Use the Feywild Guide Names, Feywild Guide Identities, and Feywild Guide Quirks tables to create Fey guides on the fly.

FEYWILD GUIDE NAMES

d8	Name
1	Fetter
2	Fiddlebones
3	Moonray
4	Pip
5	Starlight
6	Stumpwick
7	Thistledown
8	Whisperwind

THE BORDERS OF BABA YAGA'S DOMAIN ARE PATROLLED BY HER DANCING HUT, WHICH DOESN'T DANCE SO MUCH AS STOMP TRESPASSERS INTO THE GROUND.

FEYWILD GUIDE IDENTITIES

d8	Identity
1	Friendly forest gnome (use the scout stat block, but change its size to Small)
2	Gloomy wood elf druid (use the druid stat block)
3	Flamboyant pixie
4	Happy-go-lucky satyr
5	Ultra-competitive sprite
6	Overly cautious treant sapling (see chapter 1 of The Wild Beyond the Witchlight for its stat block)
7	Giggly goblin warlock (use the cult fanatic stat block, but change its size to Small)
8	Humorless centaur

FEYWILD GUIDE QUIRKS

d8	Quirk
1	Always hearkens back and compares things to "the good old days"
2	Can't tell a lie without wiggling their nose first
3	Never takes off their hat
4	Loves food and isn't picky about what they eat

d8	Quirk
5	On a secret quest that they can't talk about, except to remind others that they're "on a secret quest"
6	Afraid of something commonplace, such as heights, enclosed spaces, or bare hands and feet
7	Carries around a suitcase full of wigs, forks, ashes, glass orbs, left shoes, or something else strange
8	Full of folksy wisdom that usually starts with, "Papa always said ..." or "Mama always said ..."

FEY OUTLOOK

A Fey creature's outlook can be whatever you want it to be, but rarely do Fey ignore the importance of reciprocity, hospitality, and gifts. These concepts are discussed in the sections that follow.

RECIPROCITY

By and large, Fey feel strongly about quid pro quo and balance. If something is taken, then something of equal value must be given, and what a Fey considers to be of equal value is the big question. A Fey might steal a human's beloved pet and leave in its place a brightly painted wooden effigy, or the Fey might take some gold and leave a bundle of bright, yellow buttercups. These exchanges satisfy the agreement of reciprocity, and a Fey who makes them sleeps soundly at night, content that the exchanges were fair.

HOSPITALITY

Hospitality is a pillar of Fey society. Treating a visitor to one's home with with courtesy and generosity is important to most Fey, but the visitor must show their Fey host the same courtesy and not act boorishly or demonstrate blatant impropriety. Rudeness breaks the bond of reciprocity and frees a Fey host from the obligation to be hospitable. But each Fey has different ideas about what constitutes rudeness; even an ill-conceived gift to a Fey host might be regarded as an insult and cause a hubbub, if not a revocation of the Fey host's hospitality. A trusty Fey guide can provide invaluable assistance in navigating such delicate situations.

GIFTS

Connected to both hospitality and reciprocity is the giving of gifts. Fey are avid gift-givers (partially because they like receiving gifts), and their gifts are usually very thoughtful. Good gifts have sentimental value to the giver. For example, a beloved heirloom makes a fine gift to a Fey creature. A throwaway gift is an insult that flies in the face of reciprocity and hospitality.

Gifts provide a kind of balance that many Fey obsess over. If there is a perceived imbalance, a carefully chosen gift can set things right; this is why refusing a gift from a Fey creature can cause them consternation, as they're trying to right a perceived imbalance by giving the gift. But accepting a gift from a Fey can cause problems for the uninitiated traveler, as it can indebt them to the Fey creature: "I gave you a gift, so now you must give me one in return." It can also lead to the formation of an accidental fey contract, as discussed in the next section.

GOOD GIFTS TO GIVE FEY

Family ring
Talisman sacred to your druid circle
Favorite hat
Piece of art that you made
Trinket from the Material Plane
Favorite dessert recipe
Sensational, applause-worthy performance
Haircut or bath

BAD GIFTS TO GIVE FEY

Item that has outlived its usefulness
Item you intended to get rid of Half-hearted performance
Cursed, evil, or broken item

FEY CONTRACTS

A fey contract is formed when a creature receives a gift (or the promise of a gift) from a Fey and is expected to give the Fey something in return. The gift can be almost anything, and the contract forms as soon as the gift is received.

ACCIDENTAL FEY CONTRACTS

A creature can accidentally stumble into a fey contract in a number of ways. The one bit of good news for the novice Feywild explorer is that most fey contracts can be broken with a remove curse spell or similar magic. Only the most powerful fey contracts are hard to break—ones woven by ancient hags, the queens of the Seelie and Unseelie Courts, and other powerful archfey. Such contracts usually require a wish spell or an elaborate ritual to negate.

Here are a few ways one might become unwittingly bound to a fey contract:

- Accepting a gift from a Fey (prompting the Fey to expect something of perceived equal value in return)
- Stealing something from a Fey (creating a metaphysical imbalance that must be rectified)
- Taking the life of a creature that made a contract with a Fey (thereby inheriting the creature's debt to that Fey)

ACCEPTING GIFTS

Some Feywild guides recommend never accepting gifts from a Fey and, more importantly, never expressing thanks.

To accept a gift from a Fey is to enter into a contract with it, especially if the gift is received with gratitude. Effusive thanks increase the gift's perceived value, and the Fey will expect something more in return.

STEALING FROM A FEY

Even if a Fey creature is unaware something has been stolen from them, they sense that they have been deprived of something. This nagging sense doesn't go away until the Fey figures out what they lost and who has the stolen item. Moreover, the Fey might not want the stolen thing back, but rather something of equal or greater perceived value.

A satyr with antlers and a green tunic is seen from behind, looking into a dark, crowded faerie bazaar. The bazaar is filled with various magical items, including a glowing orb, a small statue, and other mystical objects. The lighting is dim, with a warm glow from the items and the satyr's lantern.

A SATYR HOPES TO FIND THE PERFECT GIFT AT A FAERIE BAZAAR.

TAKING A LIFE IN DEBT

Before taking the life of a creature in the Feywild, a wise individual makes sure that creature has no outstanding debts to Fey. Any Fey the creature was indebted to look to the killer to make good on the creature's unfulfilled debts.

Fey are understandably cautious when collecting debts from a person who is prone to violence. They usually make their demands at times when it's safest for them to do so, such as when the killer is bathing or in a crowded place.

MAKING A CONTRACT

Fey contracts can be divided into two categories: greater contracts and lesser contracts. Greater contracts are made with archfey, ancient hags, and other powerful Fey spellcasters. Lesser contracts are made with Fey of all other sorts. Here are some examples of gifts Fey can bestow as part of a greater or lesser contract:

GREATER CONTRACT GIFTS

Audience. You and your companions gain a private audience with the Summer Queen, the Queen of Air and Darkness, or both.

Major Magic Item. You gain a very rare magic item that is yours to keep, or a legendary magic item for 5d12 days.

Safety. One creature that previously regarded you as an enemy no longer remembers you at all.

Time Displacement. You and your companions can return to the Material Plane up to fifty years from now without having aged a day.

Title. You gain an important title and all the rewards that come with it (see "Marks of Prestige" in the Dungeon Master's Guide).

Wealth. You receive up to 50,000 gp worth of coins, jewelry, or property.

LESSER CONTRACT GIFTS

Charm. You gain a charm of your choice, subject to the DM's approval (see "Supernatural Gifts" in the Dungeon Master's Guide).

Fey Kinship. For 5d6 days, you gain either the Fey Ancestry trait common among elves or the Speak with Small Beasts trait common among forest gnomes.

Guide. You and your companions receive help from a guide who can guarantee safe passage through a particular region of the Feywild (such as a Domain of Delight).

Inspiration. You gain inspiration each day at dawn for 2d4 days.

Invitation. You receive an invitation to the Summer Court or the Gloaming Court (though this invitation does not guarantee an audience with the Summer Queen or the Queen of Air and Darkness).

Minor Magic Item. You gain a common magic item that is yours to keep, or an uncommon magic item for 5d6 days.

Proficiency. You gain proficiency in a skill of your choice for 2d4 days.

Spellcasting. You gain the ability to cast a spell of 4th level or lower once, without material components. You choose the spell, and your spellcasting ability for it is Charisma.

PRICE OF A CONTRACT

If you're not sure what a Fey expects to receive for a gift they bestow, roll on the appropriate Fey Desires table.

To collect something intangible, such as a creature's singing voice or the color in its eyes, a Fey must tap into the magic of the Feywild. In other words, it's the magic of the Feywild, not the Fey creature, that allows a character to claim what would otherwise be impossible to obtain. For this reason, a Fey can't claim such a thing unless they and the creature with which they made the contract are both in the Feywild.

FEY DESIRES FOR GREATER CONTRACTS

d8	What the Fey Wants
1	One of your fingers
2	To take the next child born in your family and raise the child in the Feywild
3	The completion of three quests, each of which you must agree to before the contract is formed
4	Your everlasting fealty
5	The ruin or demise of the Fey's sworn enemy
6	A precious object (such as a rare, very rare, or legendary magic item) that was stolen by or belongs to the Fey's sworn enemy
7	An art object that is deemed priceless, such as a famous painting that hangs in a museum
8	Your youth (which the Fey can harvest and bestow on another creature)

FEY DESIRES FOR LESSER CONTRACTS

d8	What the Fey Wants
1	Your singing voice
2	A trinket that carries great sentimental value
3	Companionship (you remain in the Fey's company for an agreed-upon period of time)
4	The color in your eyes
5	The memory of your first kiss
6	The spring in your step or the sparkle in your eyes
7	A lock of your hair
8	Your name (requiring you to choose a new one for yourself)

BREAKING A CONTRACT

The Feywild can punish a creature for breaking a fey contract, but the creature must be on the plane to be affected. The penalty imposed on a creature who breaks a lesser contract can be removed by any magic that ends a curse; a wish spell is needed to remove the penalty for breaking a greater contract.

The Breaking a Greater Contract and Breaking a Lesser Contract tables can be used to determine the magical penalty of breaking a fey contract.

BREAKING A GREATER CONTRACT

d8	Penalty
1	You can't speak or cast spells with verbal components. Whenever you try to speak, you bray like a donkey instead.
2–3	You magically transform into an owl. You retain your languages, your ability to speak, and your mental ability scores (Intelligence, Wisdom, and Charisma). You otherwise have the statistics of an owl.
4–5	You can't attune to magic items. If you are currently attuned to one or more magic items, your attunement to those items ends immediately.
6–7	You are petrified.
8	An iron thorn is magically lodged in your chest. Every day, you can feel it move closer to your heart. If this effect is not ended within 3 days, you die and can't be revived for 5d12 days.

BREAKING A LESSER CONTRACT

d8	Penalty
1–2	Your appearance becomes more toad-like (warty skin, bulbous eyes, large mouth, and webbed digits). This transformation has no game effects.
3	You smell like swamp gas. No amount of bathing can rid you of this stench.
4	Your shadow does not match your movements, which other creatures find unsettling.
5–6	Your appearance becomes more rat-like (beady eyes, whiskers, small ears, pointy nose, little hands and feet, and a rat's tail). This transformation has no game effects.
7	You cast no reflection. Superstitious folk who notice think you're a vampire.
8	You are constantly surrounded by a small cloud of annoying but harmless flies.

ONE WAY TO END A CURSE ON YOURSELF IS TO GET BITTEN BY A FAERIE DRAGON OF A PARTICULAR COLOR.

FEY ABODES

Fey creatures live in abodes they fashion for themselves or repurpose for their needs. Characters might stumble upon these abodes in their Feywild wanderings. Use the Fey Abodes table to randomly determine a Fey creature's lair, or choose an option that works well for the creature in question.

FEY ABODES

d20	Abode
1	A pagoda overgrown with flowering vines that beckon visitors with pleasing scents
2	A crooked stone tower that has a moon-like orb of light circling its rooftop, which causes the tower's shadow to move like a clock hand
3	A decrepit mansion that is partially sunk in the middle of a bog
4	A rocky hill shaped like a sleeping satyr, with its open mouth forming a cave entrance
5	A windmill that walks around on giant crow's feet
6	A crumbling keep on a small island in the middle of a mist-shrouded loch
7	An old farm overgrown with giant pumpkins
8	A treehouse built in the boughs of a treant

d20 Abode

9	A tower that used to be the trunk of a giant petrified tree, with rope bridges connecting it to the giant living trees that surround it
10	One or more houses in hollowed-out mushrooms
11	A gingerbread cottage with a frosting-covered roof, frosting icicles, chocolate doors, and gum-drop gardens
12	A musty, web-shrouded stone cottage surrounded by an orchard of awakened apple trees
13	A walking stone colossus with a tower for a head
14	A cave-riddled hill that walks around on giant stone feet
15	A walled garden filled with friendly critters, talking flowers, and grasping vines
16	A well-preserved elven tomb overgrown with moss, decorated with statues, and festooned with bird nests
17	A giant beaver's lodge
18	An inn or hostel carved into the foot of a hill
19	A dragon skull lying in the sand
20	One or more giant rusty helmets that serve as houses, surrounded by an ancient battlefield

CHAPTER 2

CREATING AN ARCHFEY

ARCHFEY ARE AMONG THE MOST POWERFUL beings in the Feywild. Consciously or unconsciously, they transform their Feywild homes into reflections of their desires and complex personalities. Powerful archfey such as the Summer Queen and the Queen of Air and Darkness rule vast domains, and their influence is so great that their courts stretch beyond the borders of their Domains of Delight to the far ends of the Feywild. Other, lesser known archfey rule domains that are minuscule by comparison, but no less wondrous.

WHERE TO START?

Most archfey are ancient creatures, and no two are alike. When creating an archfey, here are some good questions to ask yourself:

- Under what circumstances might adventurers encounter the archfey?
- Does the archfey have any allegiance to the Summer Court or the Gloaming Court?
- What traits does the archfey have? Specifically, what do they look like, what is their personality, and what magical powers do they possess?

These questions are tackled in the sections that follow. The answers will help you flesh out the archfey's Domain of Delight.

ENCOUNTERING THE ARCHFEY

Think about how and when you expect the adventurers to encounter your archfey. The archfey might infiltrate the party using illusion magic or spy on the characters from afar to discern their intentions before confronting them. The archfey might test the characters' mettle with a series of challenging encounters or puzzles before deeming them fit to bask in the archfey's presence. Conversely, the archfey might be blissfully unaware of the party's intrusion or show no interest in the characters. A shy or reclusive archfey might not want to be disturbed at all.

How and when the archfey crosses paths with the adventurers can be determined by answering the following questions:

- Does the archfey engage with visitors or shun them?
- Does the archfey wander their domain, or do they prefer to remain in their lair?

- Does the archfey visit other domains? Are they involved in the politics of the Fey courts?

FEY COURT ALLEGIANCES

The Summer Queen and the Queen of Air and Darkness are so powerful that other archfey might feel it's in their best interest to ally with one or both of them. By swearing allegiance to either queen, an archfey gains the privilege of audiences with the queen and faint assurances that the queen's court will not meddle in the affairs of the archfey or their domain.

Archfey that do not pledge allegiance to one court or the other can find their domains overrun with Seelie or Unseelie spies or overlapped by the domains of archfey in league with one or both queens.

PRESENTATION

Archfey have one thing in common: they're all Fey. Beyond that, their features vary widely. To randomly determine what your archfey looks like, roll on the Archfey's Presentation table.

ARCHFEY'S PRESENTATION

d8 Presentation

- 1 Adorable. The archfey has taken on the form of something adorable, such as an otter, a fawn, a sugar glider, a wombat, or a beautiful butterfly.
- 2 Ancient. This archfey appears to be eons old. They might have gnarled skin like teakwood and long, gray hair that looks like elaborate lacework.
- 3 Bizarre. This archfey looks like something from the realm of dreams. They could take on the appearance of a scintillating ball of light, a floating mask, or a whispering shadow.
- 4 Floral. Flowers bloom from the archfey's fingertips, and their skin is covered in petals. Their body might have thorns, or they could have vine-like hair covered in sweet-smelling blossoms.
- 5 Fluid. The archfey can change body type or transform from one creature into another.
- 6 Iridescent. The archfey floats off the ground and gazes about with glowing eyes, their body surrounded by a nimbus of light and their skin sparkling like sunlight on water.

d8 Presentation

- 7 Metallic. The archfey appears to be made of metal. Their face is an exquisitely crafted mask of mithral, silver, or gold, and their body is made of finely tooled metal etched with organic designs or cryptic symbols.
- 8 Monstrous. This archfey has a monstrous form. For example, they might resemble an enormous spider, a hydra whose heads look like oversized elf heads with fangs, or any other horrific form you can imagine.

PERSONALITY

If you haven't already settled on a personality for your archfey, you can determine it randomly by rolling on the Archfey's Personality table.

ARCHFEY'S PERSONALITY

d8 Personality

- 1 Benevolent. The archfey welcomes all into their domain and does everything in their power to assist those who come to them in true friendship or grave need.
- 2 Covetous. The archfey hoards things they consider valuable and uses spies to find more of what they covet. The archfey never leaves their lair for fear that their hoard might be plundered.
- 3 Imperious. The archfey surrounds themselves with a court of sycophants and expects visitors to grovel before them. Their mercy is rare, and their superiority complex is legendary.
- 4 Madcap. The archfey loves to sing, dance, drink, wear silly masks, do cartwheels, and throw parties where everyone is free to cavort and revel how they wish.
- 5 Mercurial. The archfey has two personalities (choose two other personalities from this table). They shift back and forth between these personalities at certain times or when certain conditions are met.
- 6 Mischievous. The archfey is a trickster who likes to confound and frustrate visitors to their domain and who surrounds themselves with sly creatures such as boggles, pixies, foxes, magpies, and crows.
- 7 Reclusive. The archfey prefers to be left alone and seldom, if ever, leaves their domain. They might adopt disguises or turn invisible when they travel, and they might use magic to conceal their lair.
- 8 Wild. The archfey has the demeanor of a wild animal and shuns the trappings of society.

OBSESSIONS

Obsessions are common among archfey. An archfey might be obsessed with a painting of themselves and spend days, months, or years staring at it. An archfey might obsess over a perceived injustice and work tirelessly to correct it. An archfey might obsess over their collection of acorns, believing the acorns are keys that unlock the secrets of the multiverse.

If you want your archfey to have an obsession, you can determine it randomly by rolling on the Archfey Obsession table.

ARCHFEY OBSESSION

d8 Obsession

- 1 Beauty. The archfey does everything in their power to rid their domain of that which they consider ugly. What they consider beautiful is not always clear, however.
- 2 Color. This archfey is obsessed with a particular color and puts their subjects to work making sure the archfey's favorite color is predominant. Wearing another color in the domain could be seen as laughable, obnoxious, or downright rude.
- 3 Etiquette. The rules in the archfey's domain change as they learn about some new custom that is popular in the Summer Court. The archfey requires all creatures in their domain to respect the new rules of etiquette.
- 4 Magic. Magic in all its forms fascinates the archfey. They collect magic items and spellbooks, and they enjoy seeing demonstrations of magic from visitors.
- 5 Material Plane. The archfey is obsessed with creatures and objects from the Material Plane. There is a scent, an energy, and a uniqueness to them that fascinates the archfey.
- 6 Monsters. The archfey has a menagerie of monsters and is obsessed with finding marvelous new creatures to add to its collection.
- 7 Rule of Three. The archfey is obsessed with the Rule of Three. They look for patterns, deeper meanings, and ill omens in things that occur in threes. The archfey's obsession is reflected throughout their domain, where things seem to naturally come in threes.
- 8 Stories. The archfey wants nothing more than to listen to stories told by creatures from faraway places. They love to gather lore so they can build their own internal world of imagination or transform their domain with ideas from other worlds. Their lair is festooned with books, which give the archfey inspiration.

A CENTAUR GUARDS AN ARCHFEY'S PALACE.

SIGNATURE MAGIC

Almost every archfey has a signature magical power, and this power might be tied to their appearance or personality; for example, a metallic archfey might have the power to corrode or heat metal, while a madcap archfey might have the power to cause wild magic effects similar to those described the Wild Magic Surge table in the “Sorcerer” section of the Player's Handbook. The Signature Magic table presents some other possibilities.

SIGNATURE MAGIC

d8 Magic

- 1 Arcane Antlers. The archfey has antlers made of metal, crystal, bone, or some other substance, which allow the archfey to raise the dead. They shed their antlers and grow new ones every hundred years, prompting thieves to sneak into the domain to acquire the shed antlers.
- 2 Compelling Voice. The archfey has a magical voice that can charm creatures of a certain type (such as Beasts or Fey). This voice might be as soft as a whisper or loud like thunder.

d8 Magic

- 3 Dreamwalk. When they sleep, the archfey projects a ghost-like version of themselves that can leave their body and go anywhere in their domain.
- 4 Hand of Knowing. One of the archfey's hands blurs as though it were in multiple places at once. The archfey can learn the entire history of a creature or object by touching it with that hand.
- 5 Health Aura. The archfey's presence rids creatures and vegetation of disease. Healthy vegetation yields an overabundance of flowers and fruit.
- 6 Scrying Eye. This archfey has an ornately crafted, removable eye that has the power of truesight (as described in the Monster Manual). The archfey can see through this orb at all times. If the detached eye is destroyed, it rematerializes undamaged in the archfey's empty eye socket.
- 7 Simulacra. The archfey can make magical copies of themselves and other creatures. These simulacra are similar to those created by the simulacrum spell.
- 8 Time Distortion. For each minute spent in the archfey's presence, an hour passes elsewhere.

CREATING A DOMAIN OF DELIGHT

ONCE YOUR ARCHFEY IS FLESHED OUT, YOU can create the Domain of Delight that serves as the archfey's home in the Feywild. Generally, the size of a Domain of Delight is a good determiner of an archfey's power, but an archfey's domain can be as big or as small as you want it to be.

GEOGRAPHICAL FEATURES

A small Domain of Delight might have only one prominent geographical feature, which you can determine randomly by rolling on the Geographical Features table. A large Domain of Delight can have multiple geographical features, which you can determine by rolling more than once on the table.

GEOGRAPHICAL FEATURES

d8 Feature

- 1 A colossal, gnarled tree, its trunk riddled with passageways, halls, chambers, and staircases
- 2 A valley filled with grassy meadows and groves of trees along a running river, nestled between two snow-capped mountains that look like the points of a crescent moon
- 3 A crystal castle that sings in sunlight or moonlight
- 4 A vast thicket of thick roots, thorny vines, and sinuous creepers that weave together to form long tunnels, grand hallways, and enormous domes
- 5 A complex of caves connected by passageways formed by Fey magic to create grand galleries and soaring vaults
- 6 Rolling farmland that yields healthy, bountiful produce of amazing size
- 7 A forest of tower-sized mushrooms, or a forest of tiny mushrooms that characters must shrink down to explore
- 8 An island that is actually a colossal sleeping turtle

DOMAIN THEME

A Domain of Delight might have a prevailing theme, which you can determine randomly by rolling on the Domain Theme table.

DOMAIN THEME

d8 Theme

- 1 Adversarial. Adversarial personalities are common here, even among the local wildlife. Animated trees swat at passersby, sentient flowers scoff and sneer, and local Fey are grumpy and uncooperative.
- 2 Crystalline. This domain contains a profusion of crystal formations and outgrowths, as well as structures and trees made of crystal. Some of the crystals might generate light, music, or both.
- 3 Gloomy. Everything here has a gloomy cast. Tree branches look like skeletal fingers, night creatures slink and flutter about, and skull-like faces appear on plants, stones, and sprites' wings.
- 4 Inquisitive. Creatures in this domain are nosy and hungry for gossip. Animated trees use their branches to pick through backpacks when travelers aren't looking; pixies spy on strangers; and birds eavesdrop on conversations, repeating what they've heard to their masters.
- 5 Kaleidoscopic. This domain is a riot of everchanging colors. Plants come in a dazzling array of colors, flowers change color to suit the prevailing mood, and Fey wear costumes of scintillating hues.
- 6 Lackadaisical. The creatures here are easygoing. No one is in a hurry, and no task is greeted with a sense of urgency.
- 7 Musical. This domain abounds with music. Frogs, toads, and insects break into multipart harmonies that sometimes crescendo into a symphonic rapture of melodious tweets, trills, chirps, and whistles. Fey in this domain are just as musically inclined.
- 8 Poisonous. Almost every plant here has spines or thorns that cause anything from itchy welts to damage or out-of-body experiences. Other sources of poison might be present as well (for example, toxic bogs or giant, poisonous Beasts).

AN INTREPID GNOME ADVENTURER TRAVERSES A MOONLIT STREAM WHILE SCOWLING FLOWERS LOOK ON.

COMING AND GOING

Travelers who don't have access to plane shift spells or similar magic must rely on other means to travel to and from a Domain of Delight. Fey crossings are the most common means of transit between the Material Plane and the Feywild; more information about them can be found in the Dungeon Master's Guide.

An archfey is usually aware of any Fey crossings that allow creatures to enter and leave the archfey's domain and may protect these Fey crossings or leave them unguarded. Some Fey crossings operate only at certain times or when certain conditions are met. The Fey Crossings table allows you to randomly determine the characteristics of a fey crossing that allows passage to and from a Domain of Delight. Your Domain of Delight can have as few or as many Fey crossings as you like, and they need not all be the same in appearance or function.

Geographical features on one side of a fey crossing tend to be similar to those on the other side, to the extent that some travelers might be unaware they've left one plane of existence and entered another. For example, if one stumbles upon a fey crossing in a cave, a similar cave might lie on the other side of that fey crossing, as if the caves were near-perfect reflections of each other.

FEY CROSSINGS

d8 Fey Crossing

- 1 Altar. This stone altar might be found atop a lonely plateau, behind a waterfall, inside a cave, or in some other remote location. When certain stars align and the proper ritual is performed, the fey crossing appears as a portal above the altar.
- 2 Crystal Cave. This cave is filled with natural crystalline formations and resembles a glittering cathedral. When moonlight shines into the cave at night, it causes a shimmering pool or spring in the center of the cave to transform into a fey crossing.
- 3 Hollow Tree. The fey crossing lies within the hollow interior of an enormous tree. The crossing is open to anyone who carries a leaf or acorn from the tree.
- 4 Maze. The fey crossing lies at the center of a maze that might change configuration from time to time. To use the crossing, one must walk or run from the maze's entrance to its center. Creatures who circumvent the maze using magic or flight find themselves unable to use the crossing.

ONE NEVER KNOWS WHERE A "SHORTCUT"
THROUGH THE FEYWILD MIGHT LEAD.

d8 Fey Crossing

- 5 Mushroom Circle. This fey crossing appears as a circle of mushrooms. The size of the mushrooms and the width of the circle can vary, but activating the fey crossing requires that a particular act be performed inside it or a particular object or creature be present.
- 6 Ruined Tower. The ruins of an ancient elven tower house a fey crossing. For three nights each year, a ghostly image of the intact tower appears above the ruined foundation, during which time the fey crossing appears as a shimmering doorway that creatures can pass through.
- 7 Stone Bridge. A Fey creature hides under this ancient stone bridge. In exchange for treasure or some other gift, this Fey can use its innate magic to create a portal atop the bridge that serves as a fey crossing.
- 8 Stone Circle. This circle of stone megaliths contains a fey crossing that is active during equinoxes and solstices.

TRAVEL IN THE DOMAIN

Visitors to a Domain of Delight are often confounded by the Feywild's power to distort distance, time, and reality. A traveler might see a hilltop that appears to be a mile away and march toward it, only to find the hilltop getting farther away. Similarly, a wanderer who asks for directions might be told to follow a particular trail, only to discover the trail changes course depending on the mood of those who travel along it. Determining how far one has traveled in a particular amount of time can be a headscratcher.

MAGICAL SHORTCUTS

Domain denizens and guides know some of the tricks to navigating a Domain of Delight, including magical shortcuts. A shortcut can also be found by accident or learned in some other way. For example, a traveler might wake from a vivid dream or a trance with knowledge of a shortcut that fades from memory after an hour.

To take advantage of a magical shortcut, one must spend 1 minute performing a routine; the Shortcut Routines table provides examples. At the end of this routine, the performer and any creatures traveling with them find themselves closer to their intended destination. How much closer is up to the DM, but a shortcut routine usually reduces the travel time to the intended destination by at least half.

A shortcut routine allows for safe, expeditious travel from one location in the Feywild to a specific destination in the Feywild, and that's all. For example, it might expedite travel from the edge of an archfey's domain to the entrance of the archfey's lair but not the other way around, and it wouldn't shorten the travel time to other locations in the domain.

SHORTCUT ROUTINES

d8 Routine

- 1 Picking petals from a flower while walking toward a beckoning sunset
- 2 Playing "Ode to the Summer Queen" on a lute while skipping counterclockwise around a tree
- 3 Eating a mushroom while gazing at one's own reflection in a clear pool or stream of water
- 4 Doing a headstand in a ring of stones
- 5 Staring at firelight while playing a flute or singing about a fond memory
- 6 Sitting by a creek while lost in childlike wonder
- 7 Whistling a tune while walking backward
- 8 Holding hands and dancing around a tree at twilight

DRAMA

You can bring your Domain of Delight to life by adding drama. When the characters show up, they might become swept up in this drama, perhaps even embroiled in intrigue. The drama can be anything from a petty squabble between Fey settlements to a full-blown fomorian incursion. To determine a worthy conflict, you can roll on the Domain Drama table or choose an entry that you like.

DOMAIN DRAMA

d8 Drama

- 1 A cherished object or favorite pet belonging to the domain's archfey ruler has gone missing.
- 2 Fomorians (or other hostile creatures) have emerged from a cave and are causing a ruckus.
- 3 The domain's archfey ruler recently turned down an invitation to the Gloaming Court, offending the Queen of Air and Darkness, whose spies are now sowing discord throughout the domain.
- 4 The domain's archfey has fallen into a magical slumber. Others are looking for someone they can trust to find a way to awaken the archfey.

d8 Drama

- 5 The vegetation is sick in part of the domain, and the contagion is spreading. The domain's archfey needs help finding the cause of the sickness.
- 6 Part of the domain overlaps the domain of another archfey, and the Fey living in that region are tired of answering to two masters. They won't be happy until one archfey yields to the other.
- 7 A sleeping knight in silver plate mail bearing no distinguishing symbols has been discovered in a hollow tree trunk. Local Fey wonder who she is and if they should revive her or not.
- 8 An arranged wedding was supposed to unite two feuding villages, but one of the grooms has disappeared. Everyone is searching for him in the hope that the wedding will take place, bringing peace to the domain.

WEIRD MAGIC

Magical forces, strange interlopers, and tragic events can alter a smaller region within a Domain of Delight. While the flora, fauna, structures, and inhabitants might remain unaffected, the region's innate character takes on new qualities.

When you wish to include such a region, roll on the Weird Magic Effects table to determine its effects, or choose an entry you like. These effects occur whenever you please, at the time each description suggests, or under one or more of the following circumstances:

- Soon after the party first enters the region
- When a creature loses more than half its hit points
- When a creature casts a spell of 1st level or higher
- When a creature activates a magic item
- When a creature makes an exceptionally loud noise or otherwise attracts attention
- When the party spends at least 30 minutes in the same region

WEIRD MAGIC EFFECTS

d8 Effect

- 1 Time visibly moves more quickly outside the region than inside it. For every minute the party spends inside the region, one hour passes outside the region.
- 2 Flowers not only are abundant in the region but also have faces and limited sentience, allowing them to communicate with creatures in the Elvish and Sylvan tongues. They know what has transpired in the region within the past day and happily share this information.

d8 Effect

- 3 Each character in the region gains the benefit of a barkskin spell that lasts for 8 hours.
- 4 Each character who spends 1 hour in the region undergoes a magical transformation, gaining fur, a tail, and large ears reminiscent of a donkey's, goat's, or llama's. This effect ends on a character 3d8 hours after the character leaves the region. Any magic that ends a curse also restores the character's normal appearance.
- 5 Harmless fireflies gather and flit around one character in the region, sharing that character's space for 1 hour. The fireflies generate bright light out to a range of 10 feet and dim light for an additional 10 feet. While surrounded by the fireflies, the character feels a profound sense of purpose and gains the benefit of the bless spell.
- 6 Creatures in the region can't leave it and find themselves covering the same ground over and over. By the time they realize this, 3d8 hours have passed, during which they have made no progress in their effort to leave. The effect then ends.
- 7 One character in the region sees a wide, grinning mouth that floats in midair, 10 feet away from them. No other creature can see the grinning mouth. In a language the character understands, the mouth says, "I'll answer three questions you put to me. Noes and yesses, I promise thee." The character can ask it three questions as if using the commune spell.
- 8 One character in the region triggers a wild magic effect that is determined by rolling on the Wild Magic Surge table in the "Sorcerer" section of the Player's Handbook. If the effect duplicates a spell, the character's spellcasting ability for that spell is Charisma.

DOMAIN DENIZENS

The Feywild Creatures table can help you populate a Domain of Delight. Stat blocks for the listed creatures appear in the Monster Manual or The Wild Beyond the Witchlight (WW).

Just because a creature doesn't appear on the Feywild Creatures table doesn't mean that it can't appear in a Domain of Delight. Any D&D creature can find its way to the Feywild, and sometimes it's fun to surprise players with creatures their characters would not expect to meet in the Feywild, such as a band of githyanki or a vampire.

AWAKENED BEASTS

Awakened Beasts (Beasts that have received the benefits of an awaken spell) are common in the Feywild, where they often serve as spies and companions.

FEYWILD CREATURES

CR Creatures

- | | |
|-----|--|
| 0 | Awakened shrub, baboon, badger, campestri (WW), cat, crab, deer, eagle, frog, giant fire beetle, goat, hawk, hyena, jackal, lizard, myconid sprout, octopus, owl, rat, raven, scorpion, sea horse, shrieker, spider, vulture, weasel |
| 1/8 | Bandit, blood hawk, boggle (WW), brigganock (WW), camel, displacer beast kitten (WW), flying snake, giant crab, giant rat, giant weasel, guard, harengon brigand (WW), mastiff, merfolk, mule, poisonous snake, pony, stirge, twig blight |
| 1/4 | Blink dog, boar, bullywug, constrictor snake, draft horse, drow, elk, flying sword, giant badger, giant crane (pteranodon), giant frog, giant lizard, giant owl, giant poisonous snake, giant snail (WW), giant wolf spider, goblin, harengon sniper (WW), needle blight, panther, pixie, pseudodragon, riding horse, sprite, swarm of ravens, violet fungus, wolf |
| 1/2 | Ape, black bear, cockatrice, crocodile, darkling (WW), giant dragonfly (WW), giant goat, giant sea horse, giant wasp, hobgoblin, myconid adult, satyr, scout, swarm of insects, vine blight, warhorse, worg |
| 1 | Animated armor, brown bear, bugbear, dryad, faerie dragon (young), giant eagle, giant hyena, giant octopus, giant spider, giant toad, giant vulture, goblin boss, half-ogre, harpy, hippogriff, lion, quickling (WW), scarecrow, spy, swarm of campestris (WW), tiger |
| 2 | Awakened tree, bandit captain, berserker, centaur, darkling elder (WW), druid, ettercap, faerie dragon (old), giant boar, giant constrictor snake, giant elk, griffon, merrow, myconid sovereign, ogre, peryton, sea hag, swarm of poisonous snakes, treant sapling (WW), will-o'-wisp |
| 3 | Basilisk, bugbear chief, bullywug knight (WW), bullywug royal (WW), displacer beast, giant scorpion, green hag, hobgoblin captain, knight, manticore, minotaur, owlbear, phase spider, redcap (WW), veteran, water weird, winter wolf, yeti |
| 4 | Banshee, elephant, ettin, sea hag (in coven) |

A BOGGLE USES ITS INNATE MAGIC TO PLUCK A VIAL FROM A CRONE'S BELT.

CR Creatures

- 5 Bulette, drow elite warrior, giant crocodile, giant shark, gorgon, green hag (in coven), hill giant, shambling mound, troll, unicorn
- 6 Chimera, cyclops, galeb duhr, hobgoblin warlord, mage, mammoth, medusa, wyvern
- 7 Drow mage, giant ape, korred (WW), oni, stone giant, tree blight (WW)
- 8 Fomorian, frost giant, hydra
- 9 Abominable yeti, cloud giant, fire giant, treant
- 11 Behir, roc
- 12 Archmage
- 13 Jabberwock (WW), storm giant
- 17 Dragon turtle

DOMAIN VISITORS

As they explore a domain, the characters might encounter other visitors, including friends and foes of the domain's archfey, planar travelers, and lost souls trying to find a way home. Use the Domain Visitors table to generate encounters with such folk.

DOMAIN VISITORS

d8 Visitor

- 1 A ranger (use the scout stat block) searching for a missing companion, lover, or long-lost ancestor
- 2 A druid searching for herbs, mushrooms, or seeds found only in the Feywild
- 3 A mage or an archmage who wants to serve the Summer Queen or the Queen of Air and Darkness but doesn't know how or where to find her
- 4 An elf (use the noble stat block) from the Material Plane who is researching their Fey ancestry
- 5 A hunter (use the gladiator or scout stat block) who was lured into the Feywild by their prey
- 6 A githzerai zerth studying the chaotic energy of the Feywild and the magic of Fey creatures
- 7 A would-be warlock (use the cultist or cult fanatic stat block) seeking an audience with the domain's archfey in the hope of gaining its patronage
- 8 A friendly arcanaloth using alter self spells to assume Humanoid form as it searches the Feywild for one of the Books of Keeping

PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER

YARNSPINNER IS AN ARCHFEY CREATED USING the tables in part 2. His domain, Fablerise, was fleshed out using the tables in part 3. Fablerise is a small Domain of Delight—roughly three square miles nestled in a forest called Thither, which is part of a much larger Domain of Delight called Prismeer. Yarnspinner only recently arrived in Thither and is unaware that he is intruding upon another archfey's territory (see The Wild Beyond the Witchlight for more information about Prismeer and its archfey ruler).

YARNSPINNER

Yarnspinner has a monstrous form resembling that of an enormous spider. However, he has a benevolent personality and is obsessed with stories. In fact, he has amassed quite a collection of storybooks, which he keeps in silk sacks for easy transport.

When Yarnspinner dreams, he projects a harmless, ghost-like version of himself that wanders his domain. In this form, he can talk to strangers and steer them one direction or another without fear of being harmed. If a visitor needs a safe haven, Yarnspinner is more than happy to fashion a hut made of spider silk for his guest to inhabit. The visitor is free to remain there as long as they wish, provided they do no harm to the other denizens of Fablerise.

Yarnspinner's favorite activity is to read stories aloud to the animals that occupy his domain, all of which benefit from having had awaken spells cast on them. The archfey's stories attract quite a gathering and are the talk of Fablerise's awakened animal kingdom.

FABLERISE

Fablerise is a vast thicket of thick roots, thorny vines, and sinuous creepers that weave together to form long tunnels, grand hallways, and enormous domes. It's a gloomy realm. A mushroom circle in the heart of the domain serves as a fey crossing, and one can travel more quickly through the thicket by whistling a tune while walking backward.

YARNSPINNER

Huge Fey (Archfey), Lawful Good

Armor Class 16 (natural armor)

Hit Points 138 (12d12 + 60)

Speed 40 ft., climb 40 ft.

STR	DEX	CON	INT	WIS	CHA
24 (+7)	16 (+3)	21 (+5)	18 (+4)	21 (+5)	19 (+4)

Saving Throws Con +9, Wis +9, Cha +8

Skills Perception +13, Stealth +7

Condition Immunities charmed, frightened

Senses truesight 120 ft., passive Perception 23

Languages Common, Druidic, Sylvan

Challenge 10 (5,900 XP)

Proficiency Bonus +4

Fey Rebirth. If Yarnspinner dies in his Domain of Delight, he revives with all his hit points 1d4 days later in a safe location in that domain.

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Yarnspinner fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Spider Climb. Yarnspinner can climb difficult surfaces, including upside down on ceilings, without needing to make an ability check.

Web Walker. Yarnspinner ignores movement restrictions caused by webbing.

Web Weaver (3/Day). Yarnspinner can take 1 minute to craft one of the following structures out of webbing:

- A 3-inch-thick, opaque wall of webbing consisting of up to three 10-foot-square sections, each of which must be anchored on at least two sides by other walls or surfaces. Each section has AC 12; 20 hit points; vulnerability to fire damage; and immunity to bludgeoning, poison, and psychic damage.
- A hut small enough to fit in a 10-foot cube. The hut comes with a closable door and a comfortable bed made of webbing, sized for a Tiny, Small, or Medium creature.
- A message consisting of no more than twenty-five characters, anchored at various points so it hangs in the air.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. Yarnspinner makes two Bite attacks and uses Spellcasting or Web once.

Bite. Melee Weapon Attack: +11 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 17 (3d6 + 7) piercing damage plus 11 (2d10) poison damage.

Spellcasting. Yarnspinner casts one of the following spells, requiring no material components and using Wisdom as the spellcasting ability (spell save DC 17):

At will: faerie fire, speak with animals

2/day each: animal friendship, create food and water, revivify
1/day each: awaken (as an action), pass without trace

Web. Yarnspinner shoots webbing at one creature he can see within 120 feet of himself. The target must succeed on a DC 17 Strength saving throw or be restrained for 1 hour. The target can repeat the save at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.

APPENDIX

ADVENTURE AIDS

The following pages provide easy-to-use versions of appendices D and E from The Wild Beyond the Witchlight, as well as the adventure's Story Tracker.

AGDON LONGSCARF THE HARENGON

CHAPTER 2: HITHER

This harengon brigand is an insufferable braggart and a daring thief who's willing to put himself in seemingly precarious situations when he has an audience, confident that his speed and cunning will see him through danger. He leads by example rather than by dictate.

Alignment. Chaotic evil.

Personality Trait. "Responsibility isn't really my thing."

Ideal. "What's yours is mine; it's only a matter of time."

Bond. "I have a reputation to uphold. I can't have it sullied by silly concepts like honesty and generosity."

Flaw. "My confidence is bound up in my scarf's powers. I'm quite the coward without it."

AMIDOR THE DANDELION

CHAPTER 4: YON

This 3-foot-tall talking dandelion finds poetry in everything and is quick to fall head over heels in love. A humble idealist, Amidor never puts its own needs above the needs of others.

Alignment. Neutral good.

Personality Trait. "My speech drifts into flowery verse, if you'll pardon the pun. Allow me to demonstrate: Do not cry, my love! Let me catch your tears as faeries collect morning dew. Let me lift your spirits like a seed on the breeze!"

Ideal. "The pursuit of true love compels me! Never shall I wilt if I have such a cause to champion."

Bond. "The beautiful Pollenella—a vision in stripes."

Flaw. "I cannot resist a pretty face or a heavenly scent."

ALAGARTHAS THE ELF PRINCE

CHAPTER 4: YON

This prince made a bargain with Endelyn Moongrave and is paying the price. He longs to return to his home in the Misty Forest and deal with the threat of an evil green dragon that nests there.

Alignment. Chaotic good.

Personality Trait. "I am an elf, and time is on my side. I refuse to give up—ever."

Ideal. "The elves of the Misty Forest will lose their homes and likely perish if that green dragon isn't slain or driven off. I shall deal with the dragon before it visits great harm on the forest and my people. That is what a prince is expected to do."

Bond. "Ah, the Misty Forest! No other wood compares to it in beauty and serenity."

Flaw. "To relent is to show weakness, and I shall not be seen as weak. It is my destiny to be king."

ARGANTLE THE KORRED QUEEN

CHAPTER 4: YON

Queen Argantle sports a generous beard and whiskers. Her hair is shorn on one side, from where Endelyn Moongrave recently snipped off the queen's precious, powerful locks. Argantle wears an abundance of shale jewelry that doesn't seem to weigh her down in the least.

Alignment. Chaotic neutral.

Personality Trait. "My mood is as stormy as the skies of Yon, and I hurl boulders when I'm angry."

Ideal. "Bitter End is a raving tyrant. I live in hope that one day we'll be free of that hag."

Bond. "I have sworn to protect Lock-bury Henge, and I'll defend it with every last whisker."

Flaw. "I am quick to make enemies and slow to make friends."

Permission is granted to photocopy this page for personal use. ©2021 Wizards of the Coast

BURLY THE BUGBEAR

CHAPTER 1: WITCHLIGHT CARNIVAL

Burly and his brother, Hurly, joined the carnival as youngsters. Hurly disappeared a few months ago, and search parties failed to locate him. Mister Witch and Mister Light convinced Burly to stay with the carnival afterward, rather than continue the search on his own. When he's not straining at some feat of athleticism, he's reading books of poetry.

Alignment. Neutral good.

Personality Trait. "I treat my brain like a muscle and try to keep it strong."

Ideal. "I keep the peace. I don't advocate violence; I'm just doing my job."

Bond. "After my brother disappeared, everyone in the carnival was so nice to me. I look out for them."

Flaw. "Sometimes I forget my own strength and accidentally break things. Especially fragile things."

CANDLEFOOT THE MIME

CHAPTER 1: WITCHLIGHT CARNIVAL

Candlefoot's appearance is strangely monochromatic, due to the chaotic magic of a reckless sorcerer to whom he was apprenticed in his youth. After fleeing his master, Candlefoot found a home in the Witchlight Carnival. He can communicate only through mime until his stolen voice is retrieved from the kenku warlock, Kettlesteam.

Alignment. Neutral good.

Personality Trait. "I shrug a lot because I'm indecisive."

Ideal. "Love has the power to conquer all."

Bond. "My true love, Palasha, means everything to me. I'd live my life's misfortunes a hundred times over if I knew the path that would lead me back to her."

Flaw. "I'm afraid of my own reflection and avoid looking into mirrors. The Hall of Illusions terrifies me."

CHUCKLEHEAD THE GOBLIN

CHAPTER 3: THITHER

Chucklehead's real name is Fug. He has a strong affection for Mishka (the only child in Loomlurch who doesn't fear or mock him) and treats her like a younger sibling. He resists any attempt to remove the maggot that lives in his head, because he fears losing it might turn him back into the uncaring, self-serving person he was previously.

Alignment. Neutral (neutral evil without the maggot).

Personality Trait. "I get angry when people make fun of my head."

Ideal. "Not all goblins are the same. I mean, look at me."

Bond. "Mishka is like my little sister. I don't like how Granny Nightshade treats her."

Flaw. "The maggot showed me my true self. I'll always love it for that, even as it eats my head."

CLAPPERCLAW THE SCARECROW

CHAPTER 2: HITHER

Despite the loss of its original head, this child-sized scarecrow retains an upbeat demeanor characterized by its affinity for gallows humor. With its long claws and rattling gourd head, Clapperclaw knows it can be off-putting to strangers, and it relies on humor to defuse tension.

Alignment. Lawful neutral.

Personality Trait. "I'm generally positive, and I make jokes when I'm nervous or sense tension in the air."

Ideal. "I prefer to keep moving from place to place."

Bond. "My original head. It was perfect every way. I hope to get it back one day."

Flaw. "I'm self-conscious about my replacement head."

CRADLEFALL THE GREEN DRAGON WYRMING

CHAPTER 3: THITHER

Granny Nightshade reared Cradlefall from an egg, but the hag's alchemical incubation processes stunted the dragon's growth, making him small even for a wyrmling. Cradlefall is Granny Nightshade's most loyal servant—a slithering parcel of cruelty that's never far from her side.

Alignment. Lawful evil.

Personality Trait. "I hiss when I speak and slink around whomever I'm talking with."

Ideal. "Terror is the best teacher, and frightened children make the best workers."

Bond. "Skabatha Nightshade is my true, loving mother. I must honor and protect her."

Flaw. "My words are laced with veiled threats, even when I'm pretending to be nice."

GLEAM THE ELF ACROBAT

CHAPTER 4: YON

Gleam is blessed with kindness, grace, and the power of moonlight. She wears a crescent moon mask and is one-half of an acrobatic duo called the Selenelion twins, alongside Glister, her sunny twin. Gleam wants to reunite with her twin and return to the Witchlight Carnival, where they belong.

Alignment. Chaotic good.

Personality Trait. "I'm shy except when I'm on stage or under the Big Top."

Ideal. "Everyone should be free to express themselves however they wish."

Bond. "I love my twin, Glister, with all my heart. I feel incomplete without her."

Flaw. "I avoid conflict. Even a simple argument leaves me flustered and longing to be elsewhere."

DIRLAGRAUN THE DISPLACER BEAST

CHAPTER 1: WITCHLIGHT CARNIVAL

Dirlagraun was raised by a noble high elf family of the Summer Court and blessed with the ability to speak and understand Common and Sylvan. The displacer beast adores the company of children and served as a nanny to the family's children.

Dirlagraun's own offspring, a kitten named Star, went missing a few weeks ago.

Alignment. Chaotic good.

Personality Trait. "My tentacles flick in the air when my guard is up."

Ideal. "Nurture the young, for they are the bright lights of tomorrow."

Bond. "I'm duty-bound to protect the young guests of the Witchlight Carnival."

Flaw. "I can't forgive myself for the disappearance of my cub, Star."

GLISTER THE ELF ACROBAT

CHAPTER 4: YON

Glister is blessed with confidence, grace, and the power of the sun. She wears a sun mask and is one-half of an acrobatic duo called the Selenelion twins, alongside Gleam, her shy twin. Glister is content to remain Endelyn's "guest" in Motherhorn if it means her sibling is safe from the hag's wickedness.

Alignment. Chaotic good.

Personality Trait. "I like to play with fire. I'm confident and take risks, even when the odds are stacked against me."

Ideal. "Everyone should be free to express themselves however they wish."

Bond. "I would sacrifice everything to protect my twin."

Flaw. "When I'm not the center of attention, I become sullen and moody."

HURLY THE BUGBEAR

CHAPTER 4: YON

Hurly's brusque nature and short temper made life in the Witchlight Carnival hard for him. His prickly demeanor stems from the fact that he lacks the talent to be what he wants to be: an entertainer. Mister Witch and Mister Light gave him menial jobs because they knew his limitations. By allowing him to perform in her theater, Endelyn Moongrave confirmed what Hurly knew to be true: that Witch and Light were right all along.

Alignment. Chaotic good.

Personality Trait. "If 'dumb brute' is the only role I can play well, I guess that's what I'll be."

Ideal. "People might pretend to care about you, but when the play is over, they show you their true selves, and it's never pretty."

Bond. "I miss my brother."

Flaw. "I'm quick to lose my temper."

KETTLESTEAM THE KENKU

CHAPTER 1: WITCHLIGHT CARNIVAL

Kettlesteam delights in causing trouble at the carnival. She uses a combination of mimicry and conjured illusions to communicate; she has overheard so many conversations that she can talk in one of several different voices.

Alignment. Chaotic neutral.

Personality Trait. "I'm stubborn as a dog gnawing a bone (mimics the sound of a dog gnawing a bone)."

Ideal. "Malicious joy. I can't help but chuckle when people mess up (mimics the sound of someone stumbling and others laughing)."

Bond. "I have a fey pact with Zybilna of Prismeer (mimics the sound of the wind blowing through willows and faraway tinkling bells)."

Flaw. "I have a volatile temper (mimics the sound of a kettle boiling over)."

JINGLE JANGLE THE GOBLIN

CHAPTER 2: HITHER

Jingle Jangle is a kind soul who refers to herself in the third person. She has a knack for finding keys and is thrilled to add new ones to her collection. She also gives keys as gifts to those who need them.

Jingle Jangle seeks a quiet life far away from locked doors and the intrigues of the fey courts. She moved to Telemy Hill to enjoy the hill's companionship and protection.

Alignment. Chaotic good.

Personality Trait. "Jingle Jangle is thorough and fastidious. No cutting corners."

Ideal. "Revel in your uniqueness, whether you're a goblin who likes keys or an awakened hill with talking trees."

Bond. "Jingle Jangle keeps her keys shiny and clean."

Flaw. "Jingle Jangle is frightened by locked doors!"

MISTER LIGHT

CHAPTER 1: WITCHLIGHT CARNIVAL

Mister Light is the face of the Witchlight Carnival. He's a loud, flamboyant ringleader who'll do anything to maintain the carnival's happy atmosphere.

Mister Light wears a harlequin suit and a jaunty hat. When he presides over the carnival's Big Top, he sparkles like a disco ball.

Alignment. Chaotic good.

Personality Trait. "There's always something for me to smile about."

Ideal. "Delight. I want everyone to feel the wonder that I feel each day in this place."

Bond. "Mister Witch is my greatest friend and most trusted confidant."

Flaw. "I was the crueller of the two of us, long ago. Perhaps that streak of violence hasn't quite left me."

MISTER WITCH

CHAPTER 1: WITCHLIGHT CARNIVAL

Mister Witch is businesslike and humorless as he deals with staff and keeps the carnival running on schedule. A smile on his visage is a rare event, and it fades quickly.

Mister Witch dresses with panache, though in muted tones, and always carries his magic pocket watch.

Alignment. Chaotic good.

Personality Trait. "I carefully consider my words before speaking them aloud."

Ideal. "Caution. Thoughtless decisions lead to reckless acts."

Bond. "This carnival is our opportunity for a new life, far away from the gloomy world we came from."

Flaw. "I'm too confident in my own authority to see the seeds of doubt in the carnival staff."

NIB THE MISER

CHAPTER 3: THITHER

Nib (whose real name is Meryl Caberstock) is a tall, rake-thin, elderly man dressed in threadbare finery and a housecoat. He wears a blindfold to avoid glimpsing the apparitions that curse him, but their presence still unnerves him.

Alignment. Neutral.

Personality Trait. "I speak in a trembling voice and jump at the slightest shadow."

Ideal. "I seek atonement. I was the worst of Waterdeep's slumlords: ruthless, miserly, and coldhearted. I suppose I'd better do some good before I die."

Bond. "My spinning wheel is the key to my redemption."

Flaw. "Yes, I'm scared. If you'd done all the things I've done, you'd be scared too."

MORGORT THE BULLYWUG KNIGHT

CHAPTER 2: HITHER

The Knight of Warts is known for her skill at piloting balloons. Justice and moral clarity guide her every action. Despite being held prisoner for treason, she claims that her honor remains intact. Even if it means losing her title, she refuses to bow to King Gullop XIX or renounce her friend and companion, Wigglewog, with whom she conspired to help Sir Talavar escape Bavlorna's clutches.

Alignment. Lawful good.

Personality Trait. "I spit whenever I hear a coward or a liar speak."

Ideal. "Honor is what makes a knight, even beyond duty or prowess with a weapon."

Bond. "Ballooning. There's nothing quite like taking flight in a balloon and going where the winds take you."

Flaw. "I'm a snob who criticizes the state and quality of weapons wielded by others."

NORTHWIND THE TREANT SAPLING

CHAPTER 1: WITCHLIGHT CARNIVAL

Northwind embodies the joys of spring, finding childlike wonder in everything from a story told by a stranger to a drop of morning dew. The sapling hails from a line of Feywild treants and travels as the Witchlight Carnival's landscaper, laying down silk ribbons to form rivers and planting acorns that grow rapidly into splendid oak trees.

Alignment. Chaotic good.

Personality Trait. "I love to hear stories. Tell me everything!"

Ideal. "Joy. Just look at the world around us! Isn't it amazing?"

Bond. "My ancestors. One day I will grow into an enormous tree and they will be so proud!"

Flaw. "Oops! I simply cannot keep a secret."

PALASHA THE MERMAID

CHAPTER 1: WITCLIGHT CARNIVAL

Palasha is an elegant and operatic mermaid whose long fins billow even when she's not underwater. She sculpts water with her extraordinary voice, creating astounding displays of aquatic magic. Palasha's distant yet demanding nature has earned her a reputation for being haughty, but really, she's just slow to trust.

Alignment. Chaotic good.

Personality Trait. "I click my fingers at those around me when I want something."

Ideal. "I strive to bring beauty and wonder into this world with the power of my voice."

Bond. "Candlefoot. I can be myself around him."

Flaw. "I have trouble showing my true feelings, which makes me seem aloof."

SHON THE HUNCHBACK

CHAPTER 5: PALACE OF HEART'S DESIRE

Shon knows that Zybilna is the archmage Igg-wily in a new form—a change for the better, in his estimation. He would never cross Zybilna, to whom he owes his career.

Shon and his "hump" (a giant wolf spider named Gray that rides on Shon's back) are never apart for very long.

Alignment. Neutral.

Personality Trait. "I like books more than people."

Ideal. "Knowledge is a great thing, but not in the hands of imbeciles and bullies. Knowledge must be protected from those who would abuse it."

Bond. "I look after Gray, and Gray looks after me."

Flaw. "If you're put off by my abrasiveness, know that I couldn't care less. I don't need any more friends."

PINCUSHION THE LIVING DOLL

CHAPTER 3: THITHER

Pincushion is Skabatha Nightshade's childhood doll—an animated nanny brought to life by Baba Yaga to help educate Skabatha. The doll's magic has kept it well preserved, despite its great age. Granny Nightshade has put Pincushion in charge of producing fabric for her toy workshop—a job the doll considers beneath it.

Alignment. Neutral evil.

Personality Trait. "I behave like the conceited mistress of a high-society fashion house."

Ideal. "I want Skabatha to respect all I've done for her."

Bond. "Nobody knows more about fashion than I do."

Flaw. "I crave flattery."

SIR TALAVAR THE FAERIE DRAGON

CHAPTER 2: HITHER

Sir Talavar is an esteemed member of the Seelie Court and a loyal vassal of the Summer Queen. Many of Sir Talavar's squires have gone on to become knights of great renown. The venerable faerie dragon has an encouraging, can-do demeanor and an unwavering sense of honor.

Alignment. Lawful good.

Personality Trait. "My speech is riddled with references to adventures I have undertaken."

Ideal. "A little kindness goes a long way."

Bond. "I am but a humble vassal of Her Magnificence, the Summer Queen."

Flaw. "My knightly oaths are tested most strongly by my craving for hard candy."

SOWPIG THE GHOUL

CHAPTER 1: WITCHLIGHT CARNIVAL & CHAPTER 3: THITHER

Skabatha Nightshade encountered this small ghoul while collecting grave dust in a cemetery on the Material Plane. The hag brought Sowpig to Loomlurch and fed her bowls of carrion. Sowpig lures children from the Witchlight Carnival into the hag's clutches so that Granny Nightshade can put them to work in her toy shop.

Alignment. Chaotic evil.

Personality Trait. "I tend to stand silently, staring and saying nothing."

Ideal. "Children need work to keep them out of trouble. Those toys aren't going to make themselves."

Bond. "I serve Granny, who made me what I am today. I would never betray her."

Flaw. "I'm a soulless husk incapable of remorse."

SQUIRT THE OILCAN

CHAPTER 3: THITHER

Originally a nonsentient oilcan, Squirt was carried to the Feywild by dwarves hoping to harvest boggle oil. Though the expedition was a success, the dwarves were put to sleep by pixie magic. During a celebration that erupted around them, an elf used her magic to animate the oilcan in jest. Having come alive at a party, Squirt was imbued with the urge to seek out fun wherever it can be found.

Alignment. Chaotic neutral.

Personality Trait. "Why do something yourself when you can have someone else do it for you?"

Ideal. "No use sitting about getting rusty when there's fun to be had. Let's party!"

Bond. "I'm running on fumes here. I need oil."

Flaw. "I'm too tired to fly today. You carry me."

STAGEFRIGHT THE GOBLIN

CHAPTER 4: YON

This goblin's real name is Onk. He oversees the goblin laborers who work behind the scenes at Motherhorn. He also serves as the theater's master of ceremonies.

Stagefright carries a fool's scepter topped with a visage similar to his, and he talks to the inanimate scepter as if it were alive (which it is not). Arguments between the two—or, more precisely, Stagefright and himself—always end with Stagefright bashing the scepter's head against something hard.

Alignment. Chaotic neutral.

Personality Trait. "My scepter would have you believe it can do a better job than I can, but time and again, I prove it wrong."

Ideal. "Chaos! I thrive in it."

Bond. "The stage is my world. Without it, I wither."

Flaw. "I treat everyone like props."

THACO THE CLOWN

CHAPTER 1: WITCHLIGHT CARNIVAL

Thaco is the longest-serving Witchlight hand, but no one really knows his history and scarcely any dare to ask, for he almost never speaks and harbors a malicious streak that is kept in check by Mister Witch. He paints his face with a grin and puffs on a bubble pipe. Thaco has retired from performing and no longer stages his knife-throwing act due to an unfortunate incident that took place in the Big Top some time ago.

Alignment. Chaotic neutral.

Personality Trait. "I prefer not to talk. When I must, I say as little as possible."

Ideal. "Everyone should mind their own business."

Bond. "My bubble pipe—if anyone touches it, they lose a finger."

Flaw. "I can't stand children. They're like roaches."

THINNINGS THE BUTLER

CHAPTER 5: PALACE OF HEART'S DESIRE

Zybilna's butler appears as a lanky man clad in faded brown clothes. Thinnings longs to see Prismeer's archfey freed from temporal stasis and her enemies fed their comeuppance. He helps anyone whose goals align with his own, but he abhors violence and shuns combat.

Alignment. Neutral.

Personality Trait. "I crave secrets."

Ideal. "Hospitality, ownership, reciprocity—the rules of conduct must be respected."

Bond. "I have pledged my fealty to Zybilna of Prismeer, and I am nothing if not her loyal servant."

Flaw. "Don't expect me to come to your rescue. I didn't get this far by being brave or foolhardy."

WILL OF THE FEYWILD

CHAPTER 3: THITHER

Will looks like an 11-year-old lad dressed in a homemade tunic and a spider silk cloak. He is the polymorphed form of an oni named Mugan, who served Granny Nightshade until a curse changed his alignment from lawful evil to chaotic good. Will's time in the forests of Thither has imbued him with a personality common among fairykind: boastful, impulsive, and full of mirth.

Alignment. Chaotic good.

Personality Trait. "I like to strike a different pose with every sentence I speak."

Ideal. "Every child must dash free and wild, like me!"

Bond. "For the Getaway Gang to flourish, we need more members. Not adults, mind you, just kids like me!"

Flaw. "I'm as stubborn and slippery as a toad. I won't and I shan't, but I will if I can't!"

VANSEL THE SATYR

CHAPTER 2: HITHER

The satyr Vansel is a vagabond who travels the Feywild in a constant state of amusement at whatever befalls him. He enjoys bathing and splashing in water, picking flowers, and eating wild mushrooms. He has no shame with regard to who he is and what he looks like, and he has a knack for small talk, reveling in the opportunity to chat with anyone about anything.

Alignment. Chaotic good.

Personality Trait. "Nothing dampens my spirits."

Ideal. "There's fun and delight to be found in every experience."

Bond. "Wonders abound in the Feywild, and I would never dream of leaving it."

Flaw. "I laugh in the face of danger, often to my detriment."

ZYBILNA OF PRISMEER

CHAPTER 5: PALACE OF HEART'S DESIRE

Iggwilv was a brilliant, calculating figure hardly prone to emotional outbursts, but as Zybilna, she allows her emotions to run rampant and is more likely to find herself in the grip of happiness, anger, or melancholy. This is the price she pays to exert control over the Feywild and impose her will on the domain of Prismeer.

Alignment. Chaotic neutral.

Personality Trait. "I have become more temperamental in my old age."

Ideal. "I used to believe that emotions and kindness were signs of weakness. Now I see their strength."

Bond. "Prismeer is my home now."

Flaw. "My mother, Baba Yaga, warned me that arrogance would be my undoing, 'as sure as stars light the night sky.' She might be right."

Did you speak? I thought 'twas the braying of an ass.

You dare speak of this, rascal?

Not even otyughs would dine on this.

On the contrary, I acknowledge all your faults.

Am I to make pie from these crumbs?

My liege, he's dead.

Are you the lord here? I bring dark tidings from afar.

It seems we are in a bit of a pickle.

You would make a mistress of the moon, if it shone on you.

No, master! He turned to stone.

You have lit my lantern wick, that's for sure! I am aflame.

But I am your son!

You! Fetch my steed!

Murder! Oh, murder!

'Tis said that in Veluna they eat such things.

Hurts, doesn't it?

Careful, whelp. Far greater than thou hath perished for less.

This portends an unpleasant day.

Hold on to thy seat. This trail has more bumps to come!

What manner of ghoul is this I see before me?

I feel I have inherited much from this meeting.

Knives, footpads, and liars. I am in good company!

Stop saying that! Are you a fool?

Even a beholder wouldn't have seen that one coming!

From this wound I shall not recover. You have slain me.

This truly is the worst outcome.

Let us dance in the whistling wind!

Tomorrow, at sunrise, I shall no longer be here.

Hurry! 'Tis best I die quickly.	I would tear the world in two for a quaff.
Lend me your hand. There is something I must show you.	How now, friend. Why the long face?
I would not wish you upon a toad.	I shall make a banquet of your dreams.
You beastly little imp!	Hush, my sweet dumpling.
Oh, let us make merry again soon!	We danced too long; now all the music is gone.
Night comes, and we must away!	Such humor. I can barely hold my sides.
I smell a foul wind.	Who goes there, on this woebegone, rain-lashed night?
Tomorrow should dawn merrier.	The words catch in my throat. I cannot speak them!
My hope is shriveled like a grape. Let us make wine of it!	That is a goatish look you have upon your face.
Tell me what I must do.	Is that a hoot or a growl? It chills my blood!
Speak only good news! My mood is leaden.	A tailor could not sew a finer lie.
I think I'll hide in the chimney.	Silence, piglet! You have squealed enough.
Enough! I shall not be kicked by any mule!	This dream shall soon end.
An unnecessary footnote, you are.	As for this one: let your sword speak.

A runt has no place among giants.

I shall not rest 'til the deed is done.

Perhaps I shall have that drink,
after all.

My enemies are dead, yet I hunger still.

Awake! The time is upon us.

This is no night for joy.

Strange bedfellows, these ones.

See, 'twas I all along!

I have a wicked thought, if you will hear it.

Here's some gristle to chew upon.

Well, here is a serpent!

I feel like a giant stepped on my head.

Two truths told. A lie is sure to follow.

All is lost! No prayer can save us now!

I warn you: my patience has sunk.

Oh, for a sword!

It seems I am betrayed.

What malice are you planning?

Have you met my husband?

What fresh horror is this?

Bar the door! They're here!

Something stirs below.

Let me answer this one.

See! I blush red as a radish.

5

Clapperclaw the Scarecrow ☐

Squirt the Oil Can ☐

Amidor the Dandelion

[illegible]
